Bridgewater launches 2010 campaign with sizeable war chest, strong grassroots network

SOUTH JORDAN, UT – Releasing his 2009 year-end financial disclosure report today, Republican small business entrepreneur Tim Bridgewater shows he’s well prepared to take on U.S. Senate incumbent Bob Bennett. With $286,000 cash on hand and a strong grassroots network throughout the state, Bridgewater is the candidate best positioned to mount a successful challenge to the 18-year incumbent.

“It takes financial resources to run a statewide campaign and to communicate effectively with the thousands of delegates and tens of thousands of primary voters,” Bridgewater says. “Special interest money from Washington will ensure that Bob Bennett is also well-funded, but we’ll have the grassroots network on our side.”

Since launching his campaign in October, Bridgewater has been working aggressively to organize his statewide grassroots network. He travels regularly throughout the state, learning what matters most to voters and sharing his vision for a better America. He has already visited each one of Utah’s 29 counties at least once, and he will soon be launching a second 29-county tour.
